

Flexible Spending Account (FSA) FAQs

What is an FSA and how does it work?

An FSA is an employer-sponsored spending account that allows employees to set aside pretax earnings to pay for eligible health care or dependent care expenses. Pretax funds are deducted from each paycheck and automatically deposited into an FSA account. Employees decide how much to contribute, tax-free, for the year.

What expenses are eligible?

Any out-of-pocket and unreimbursed medical expenses allowed under section 213(d) of the Internal Revenue Code, except health insurance premiums and long-term care services, are allowed. FSAs can also be used for day care or other dependent care expenses required to allow an individual to work. A complete list can be found at learn-carefirst.hellofurther.com.

How is an FSA funded?

Employees make pretax contributions through automatic payroll deductions. Employers can also decide to contribute up to a maximum amount.

What are the benefits to employees?

Pretax contributions lower taxable income and reimbursements are made tax-free from the employee's account. In addition, an employee has access to the entire elected amount on the first day of the plan year.

How do employers save money?

FSA programs can lower employers' FICA taxes on their employee payroll and possibly what is paid for other benefits plans, such as workers' compensation and disability, that are based on employees' taxable income.

What types of FSAs are available?

There are two types of FSAs employers can offer to employees. Employees can participate in one or both.

- Medical FSA—Allows employees to pay for eligible expenses that are not covered by the health plan, such as deductibles, coinsurance, dental care, orthodontia and vision care. The total amount the employee chooses to contribute is available to them on the first day of the plan year, even if they have not contributed that much yet.
- Dependent Care FSA—Allows employees to pay for day care for dependents so that the employees may work. Qualifying dependents include children under 13 and older individuals incapable of self-care. With a dependent care FSA, the money must be in your account before you can request reimbursement.

Medical FSA	Dependent Care FSA
Covers medical, dental and vision costs	Covers day care for children under age 13 and other dependents not capable of self-care
Employee contribution maximum: $3,200	Employee contribution maximum: $5,000

Depending on an employee's tax bracket, an employee can save nearly 30% on most medical, health and child or eldercare expenses. For example, an employee earning $30,000 with a $2,000 FSA contribution can save an estimated $300 in taxes.

What is the main difference between an FSA and an HSA?

With both an HSA and an FSA, employees make tax-deductible contributions. HSAs are individually owned while FSAs are part of the employer's plan options. Employers, family members and any other individuals can contribute to an HSA account. An FSA must be funded by employer contributions or employee pre-tax contributions. HSA balances can be carried over year after year until spent. An employee can take the account with them should they leave the company or retire. With an FSA, funds remaining at the end of the plan year are given back to the employer.

Is a debit card available?

Yes. A Visa® Debit Card is available for eligible medical expenses, and can be used at the point of purchase or after care.¹

What happens to FSA funds at the end of the year?

Unused money in an FSA account is handled in one of three ways based on the plan design. It may be:

- Forfeited at the end of the plan year
- Partially rolled over (up to $640) to the next year. Anything above this amount will not be rolled over and will be forfeited.
- Given a grace period, which allows expenses in the first few months of a new plan year to be paid with old plan year funds. Remaining balances are then forfeited.

Please note, IRS contribution amounts outlined above apply only to the 2024 plan year.
